

Onyinyechi Anyalenkeya

Ekiti State, Nigeria [anyalenkeyaonyinyechi@gmail.com] | +234 8034199018]

Spent the last thirteen years teaching and grading undergraduate students in European, African American and African Literature courses, a detail-oriented tertiary education professional with extensive experience reviewing, analyzing, supervising and marking essays, individual and group assignments, seminars, and thesis across the Humanities. Demonstrated expertise in Creative Writing with several short stories published locally and internationally, with an output of several multidisciplinary journal articles and book chapters, speaks multiple languages and has a recognizable track-record of academic excellence. A recognized critical thinker, exceptional attention to details, and the ability to produce high-quality work independently.

Core Skills

- AI Training & Data Annotation
- Research and Fact Checking
- Tutoring
- Data Review and Validation
- Assessment and grading
- Content Evaluation
- Creative Writing
- Academic Writing
- Research

Professional Experience

Lecturer, Department of English & Literary Studies; Federal University, Oye-Ekiti, Ekiti State, Nigeria.

- Conduct undergraduate continuous assessment and examinations.
- Grade assignment, seminar presentations and group presentations.
- Prepare course curriculum and course outline for undergraduate degree courses.
- Conduct detailed review of undergraduate final year academic thesis, looking out for plagiarism and unreported use of artificial intelligence.
- Write and publish academic journals, textbook chapters and short stories.
- English to Igbo and Igbo to English language translation.

Education

University of Ibadan, Oyo State, Nigeria – MA (English)

University of Nigeria Nsukka, Enugu State, Nigeria – BA (English & Literary Studies)